

Call Of Christ

Christ calls us to become a community that is not based on the values of this world, but is small and vulnerable and foolish and based on God's values. This call to worship uses some of the shortest of parables and stories that Jesus told but which contain some of the deepest of truths.

Come, not to create power and wealth,
but to become a community that values wisdom,

Come, not to climb lofty branches,
but to plant a small seed in the ground.

Come, not to savour the feast of kings,
but to ferment yeast into bread.

Come, not to flaunt precious jewels,
but to find the hidden treasure within you.

Come, not to trade in the things of this world,
but to find what is precious.

Come, for it is Christ the craftsman and teacher who meets us here.

© Clare McBeath and Tim Presswood, 2005