

Call To Speak

Sometimes we are called to speak. Sometimes we do not have the confidence to speak or have been silenced. Sometimes people cannot physically hear or speak but can communicate in a whole variety of other ways. I once had the privilege to work on a writing project with a man who spoke through a computer by painstakingly typing in one letter at a time. It was more than worth the wait to hear what he had to say. This call to worship affirms that however we communicate; God calls us into relationship and wants to hear what we say.

Come to God,
You who have much to say
And you who would rather keep silent.

Come to God,
You who can speak confidently
And you who have been silenced.

Come to God,
You who can hear and speak
And you who communicate in more creative ways.

Come to God,
For God calls us into relationship
And wants to hear whatever we have to say.

© Clare McBeath and Tim Presswood, 2009