

Recycling God

I think this was written for a service when we looked at the theme of God's creating and recreating and tried to relate this to the way we think about ourselves and our world. If memory serves me right, we made a collage out of rubbish as a visual reflection on our recycling and recreating God.

Come into the presence of the God who creates

Come into the presence of the God who picks us up

Come into the presence of the God who lifts us up

Come into the presence of the God who never rejects

Come into the presence of the God who forgives

Come into the presence of the God who makes new

Come into the presence of the God who re-cycles

For God created the seasons and cycles of life
Where every being has its purpose and worth

For God created the seasons and cycles of life
And challenges us to re-cycle and recreate.

©Clare McBeath & Tim Presswood, 2006