

Delighting In God

No prizes for guessing that the theme for this morning was the creation story at the beginning of Genesis – where we delight in meeting God in the garden but are relieved to see that God is also in the chaos as well!

We arrive on a sun-kissed morning or when raindrops soak the earth when frost makes the garden sparkle and dawn rolls back the dark

God of the morning, we delight in you

We delight in the garden God's made us the Eden of our dreams where nothing bad can happen but things are not quite as they seem

God of the garden, we delight in you

As we open our eyes to the headlines and meet after another long week where life feels more like the desert storms than the garden of peace we seek

God of the chaos, we delight in you

As we look at the people around us and marvel at the human race its surprising we get on at all together a reminder maybe, of God's grace

God of community, we delight in you.

©Clare McBeath & Tim Presswood, 2007