

March Of The Penguins

This prayer was inspired when, as part of our reflections on what it meant to journey together as a community we watched an excerpt from the wildlife feature length documentary, March of the Penguins, which tells the story of Emperor Penguins working together to survive and incubate the next generation through the harshest of arctic winters.

Creator God
So far away yet ever near The journey is long to find you to find new life
to find new love
It is cold
the wind howls
the snow whips across my face the frost chills my soul
I can't go on
I can't go on
I can't go on

Yes you can Here, walk in front of me
I'll shelter you from the wind

And if I walk beside you

And I walk on the other side

We can share our warmth

We can share our journey

We can share our life together

And when one stumbles
we'll offer support

And when one falls
we'll share our pain

One family
One loaf
One flock
One body

©Clare McBeath and Tim Presswood, 2006