

Aspects Of Trinity

Holy, holy, holy is the One who sits enthroned on high shaking the pivots of the thresholds with smoke and red hot embers thundering over the mighty waters breaking the cedars of Lebanon
Who will go for us?
“Here I am, send me!”

Teaching through parables and signs a man reveals glimpses of the Kingdom speaking of rebirth in water and spirit not as slaves but adopted as children of God and co-heirs with Christ
Who will go for us?
“Here I am, send me!”

Blowing where it chooses cleansing with water and refining through fire filling us with blessings of peace encouraging us to speech not to condemn the world but in order that the world might have life
Who will go for us?
“Here I am, send me!”

© Clare McBeath and Tim Presswood, 2008