

Let Us Look For God

We look up into the stars,
build rockets and telescopes
but we can't see God.

Let us look into things,
see atoms and molecules
but we can't see God.

We examine our bodies
understand how we work
but we can't see God.

God is nowhere to be found.
Yet everywhere we look,
we find evidence of God at work.

So let's look here
and now
in this forgotten place
among this forgotten people.

Perhaps God is here.

©Clare McBeath & Tim Presswood, 2008